I am a fast learner and a hard working person, who has acquired his knowledge through the study of Web Development at HNC level, also I have worked as intern due to my degree. Although I can do CSS and HTML, I am more interested in back-end functions and data management. I really enjoy challenges and am keen to increase my web development abilities and knowledge. I am used to teamwork because of many works and projects I did through my education, however I have worked on my own on my intern periods, so I can work on both types of environment.
